

SPE THAILAND

2009 Scholarship Programs

Objectives

SPE Thailand Section provides technical and financial support to students studying Petroleum Engineering, Geoscience, and other technical programs leading to career in the petroleum exploration and production industry.

The chapter also promotes student mentoring through the many experienced members and also actively encourages students to participate in section activities as well as being masters of their own activity initiatives.

Scholarships are supported by the SPE Thailand Foundation. Awards have been made to several academic institutions in the Kingdom of Thailand.

The 2009-2010 Program has been enhanced to align the scholarship program with other initiatives of SPE Thailand - technology support, mentorship, and other development programs initiated either by SPE or the students. Specifically for scholarship program, the size of the awards has been increased to raise the visibility of opportunities available through career within the industry, and the engagement between SPE and the recipients will also be emphasized. This effort in turn will ensure the industry maintain strong partnership with the universities for access to and development of the emerging talents that will form the core of the industry in the years to come.

2009 Scholarship

SPE Thailand will support two scholarships for students studying in their third year on a Bachelor in the degree of petroleum engineering, geoscience, and other technical programs leading to career in the petroleum exploration and production industry.

Each scholarship will be 120,000 Baht per year, dispensed in two equal installments. SPE Thailand will continue to maintain the scholarship program to sustain the engagement between the industry and the universities. The Program can expand subject to the Board of Directors' consideration.
